The Friends of the Lakeshore Nature Preserve supports this urban natural area on the University of Wisconsin-Madison campus through land stewardship, advocacy, financial support, education and outreach.

The 300-acre Preserve, with over four miles of shoreline, shelters cultural landscapes and significant plant and animal communities for teaching, research, outreach and environmentally sensitive use.

Friends of the Preserve supports University of Wisconsin activities that:

- ✓ ensure the integrity of these special places
- ✓ enhance native biodiversity
- ✓ provide learning opportunities for students and for the community
- ✓ foster responsible use of natural areas in an urban environment

Lakeshore Nature Preserve

University of Wisconsin-Madison

When we see land as a community to which we belong, we may begin to use it with love and respect.

— Aldo Leopold

Welcome to the Lakeshore Nature Preserve where undeveloped lands are permanently protected and people have long enjoyed the benefits of interacting with nature.

- Produced a 250 species bird checklist and conducted a three-year breeding bird study

- Sponsored field trips interpreting Preserve geology, Indian burial mounds, plants, animals, and marsh ecology

- Donated over $200,000 to the Preserve Stewardship Fund for restoration and maintenance

- Planted thousands of native plants to replace invasive species
